

[DRAFT]

The following requirements must be met for the Flint Center community benefit initiative process to be considered inclusive of student needs:

1. The establishment of a committee of multiple students, faculty, and staff to oversee the process of deciding what will replace the Flint Center.
2. A published and distributed calendar of engagement opportunities for multiple groups of students in various forms over the course of the next year.
3. Student needs, both current and projected, will be factored into the decision making processes in clear and quantifiable ways.
4. Weighing mechanisms and priorities for the final decision must be clearly communicated— i.e., to what extent is final decision made based on investor return, etc.
5. Students must be included in all meetings where decisions are made.
6. All materials, including financials and investor information, shall be shared with the committee.
7. There shall be communication in advance of engagement opportunities, with informational materials disseminated to students through instructors, DASB, the Office of Equity and the Communications Office.
